Wayne Marnell of Internet Marketing and Management Group (IMMG) Elected Executive Vice President of the Board of Directors of the Organ Donation Awareness Foundation

Wayne Marnell of Coral Springs, Florida-based Internet Marketing and Management Group, has been elected Executive Vice President of the Board of Directors of the Organ Donation Awareness Foundation (ODAF).

Wayne Marnell of Internet Marketing Management Group (IMMG), based in Coral Springs, Florida has been elected Executive Vice President of the Board of Directors of the Organ Donation Awareness Foundation (ODAF), effective September 5. Marnell is the founder and COO of Internet Marketing and Management Group, LLC (IMMG).

The goal of the Organ Donor Awareness Foundation is to increase awareness of organ donation and to provide funds for the children of Organ Donor Heroes to begin or continue their education at college or vocational school. The foundation provides educational opportunities for those students whose education might otherwise have been postponed or interrupted as a result of the financial hardship caused by the death of a parent who was an Organ Donor Hero. "We welcome Wayne's expertise and his company's help. IMMG has really given us all that we need and more. It created our website, our logo, our branding and our marketing materials. ODAF will be forever grateful," says Neal Bira, the founder of ODAF.

Mr. Marnell's company, IMMG, provides web-centered, integrated marketing and management solutions that help small and medium-sized organizations enhance their identity, increase productivity and profit, and connect with customers. "We empower companies by offering technology, design, ideas, and professional marketing and management services that are designed to dominate the competition," says Marnell. "Awareness is the operative word in ODAF's name and that's what I hope to bring more of to the organization. We hope to do this by optimizing ODAF's website and marketing campaigns, which are IMMG's specialties."
